[I am a Tuscany-born woman who lives and works in Milan. I earned a MA in Latin Literature (1999) and a BA in Religious Sciences (2008). My education also comprises specific training in digital publishing, photography, and editorship. Between 2008 and 2020, I was a teacher of religion and culture in Secondary School, where I realized many didactic projects related to theatre, arts, and intercultural experiences. Nowadays, I work in the field of editorship, web management, and digital communication. In September 2020, I joined Filo&Fibra, a women-led cooperative committed to promoting circular economy and social participation.]
